MEDIA FOR EXHIBITS, DISPLAYS, AND PERMANENT INSTALLATIONS

Each month, more than a million people are impressed, entertained and informed by The Caribiner Group media in theme parks, museums, trade show exhibits and corporate galleries across the nation.

At the same time we are the leading American producer of business-to-business events... running at a level of over 400 meeting days each year.

These business assignments offer an unusual advantage to corporate exhibit and museum projects in that we endlessly seek out and test innovative audio-visual delivery systems, search for new talent resources, and are on stage for live audiences who respond with instant, and often measured, feedback. Our corporate clients trust us to know a great deal about audiences and how to move them...both in main tent and seminar sessions.

These events are launched from seven facilities — in New York, White Plains, Boston, Chicago, Detroit, and San Francisco, Southern California — employing over 150 full-time, Caribiner-trained professionals.

Our New York facilities occupy 40,000 square feet on five floors adjacent to Lincoln Center. The New York offices feature full staging, creative, art, and production departments.

Since our Chicago office opened ten years ago it has twice outgrown its original space.

Our Detroit office offers exclusive services to the Ford Motor Company in all aspects of business-to-business communications.

And in Southern California, we've opened Multimedia, a division of The Caribiner Group, to serve corporate, entertainment, advertising and architectural firms with comprehensive computer design and animations. We produce, in house, media for theme park simulator rides, architectural models in CAD, or corporate logos, in print, motion picture, digital broadcast video or 1125/60 High Definition.

Multi-year construction schedules and long term maintenance responsibilities encountered in permanent corporate galleries and museum installations make financial stability a high priority in choosing resources. Thus our relationship with E.M. Warburg, Pincus & Co., Inc. as our partner and largest shareholder is valued by clients in the private and public sectors.

CORPORATE AND MUSEUM EXHIBITS AND EVENTS

For over two decades, the media of The Caribiner Group have animated award-winning corporate exhibits, trade shows, theme parks, corporate galleries, visitor centers, private and public museums, World's Fairs, and other permanent or once-in-a-lifetime events.

In developing these projects, we partner as team members with museum or exhibit designers and builders. Our prime role is to create the media or live talent elements which are the "voice" of the installation, fitting seamlessly into the vision of the entire enterprise.

Examples of those collaborations include:

Questor Simulator Ride, Busch Gardens, Williamsburg, VA and Tampa, FL

Questor is the simulator ride attraction now playing at Busch Gardens in Williamsburg and Tampa. It is a 4-minute roller coaster-like experience that is currently the world's largest audience simulator platform, seating 59 people. We conceived, wrote, directed and produced the pre-show video and 70mm main screen for the magical journey in which the fantasy vehicle and its riders fly, swim, bore through the center of the earth and plunge over a 300 high waterfall.

Museum of Science & Industry, Chicago, Illinois

The new U.S. Navy exhibit is "home port" for huge-scale versions of working areas on an aircraft carrier, submarine and AEGIS class destroyer. Our media include an interactive touch tour of a submarine, elaborate sound environments and games and a C.I.C. battle experience environment detailed authentically with working monitors, computer screens, Perspex screen battle maps, and surround sound. Designed by DMCD.

EXPO '86, Washington State Pavilion, Vancouver, British Columbia

One of the most popular attractions at Expo '86 in Vancouver, B.C. was the Washington State Pavilion, designed by DMCD, and its immense wall of visuals produced by The Caribiner Group. We shot film and slides for two months, and designed an array of 73 projectors filling the "World's Longest Screen." Designed for continuous access, viewers rode for 7 minutes past the screen on a people mover. The endlessly moving ride and show entertained over 2,500,000 people.

National Baseball Hall of Fame, Cooperstown, NY

The Caribiner Group was commissioned to conceive and produce an orientation-theater show for devoted fans, casual tourists, excited youngsters and adults.

Our set designers and staging technicians converted an old basketball gym into a 225-seat "Baseball Stadium" complete with a 9' x 27' screen, film projection, 18 slide projectors, painted scrims and wraparound environments, star fields, 12 suspended light boxes, powerful audio, theatrical lighting, and a huge automated scoreboard. The fully automated show is run three times an hour, starts at the press of one button, and runs 30 to 40 times a day.

NPE -- Dow Exhibit: McCormick Place, Chicago, IL

Created to dramatize Dow's service attitude to an audience who largely thought of them as commodity manufacturers, our theater show featured a three minute motorized people mover ride that carried viewers through special effects, video, and projected film environments, generating a 78% increase in viewer recognition of Dow's service.

IBM Innovations: 590 Madison Avenue, New York, NY

A highlight of the IBM Gallery of Science and Art was a unique "mediawall" which we designed, created and installed to tell the story of IBM basic research to all of their publics, from strategic allies to school groups. The inspirational quality for which this piece has been highly honored was enhanced by a unique delivery system of video monitors, projectors and fiber optics hidden behind a long, curved 35' wall of smoked plexiglass. Exhibit design by DMCD.
